SEMI-ANNUAL REPORT

FOR THE SIX MONTHS ENDED

AUGUST 31, 2017

American Trust Allegiance Fund

October 2017

Dear Fellow Shareholders,

At the time of this writing in early October, the U.S. stock market continues to make new highs and remains remarkably resilient in the face of hurricanes, the prospect of higher interest rates, uncertainty with respect to tax reform and fiscal stimulus, and geopolitical turmoil overseas. Why? Credit synchronous global growth, relatively strong business and consumer confidence, and the transformational role of evolving technology across all sectors of our economy.

Notwithstanding the overall resilience of the market, there has been a considerable dispersion of sector performance – with technology leading the way and energy lagging. And while overall market volatility is low, individual stocks are subject to swift punishment should they disappoint on earnings or if they are seen to be vulnerable. Call it a “stock picker’s market.” These sector and stock-specific trends have continued into the Fall, and they are a backdrop that we believe has positive implications for the Fund’s outlook.

PERFORMANCE DISCUSSION

The performance of the American Trust Allegiance Fund (the “Fund”) during the six-month fiscal period ended August 31, 2017 (that constitutes the measurement period for this Semi-Annual Report) was a total return of 8.02% versus 5.65% for the S&P 500® Index (“S&P 500”). Outperformance relative to the S&P 500 in the six months therefore stands at 2.37%. Most of this difference comes from stock-specific performance, but some comes from how much we have invested in certain economic sectors. We will discuss each impact in turn, starting with sectors.

The two exhibits below show first: a graphical depiction of year-to-date performance by industry sector and; second, a table of sector weightings for the S&P 500 as compared to the Fund, and the impact of the Fund’s weightings relative to the S&P 500 on performance. This impact is measured in “basis points” – which are hundredths of a percent (i.e., 100 basis points = 1%).

Of the six-month relative performance, our large position in technology – at 32% versus 22% – helped performance by 100 basis points (as mentioned above, that is 1%). Partially offsetting this, the lack of healthcare exposure in the Fund was the largest detractor, shaving 54 basis points from performance. Exactly offsetting each other at 18 basis points each, our underweight in the financials sector was a plus for the period, while our slight overweight in energy was a negative. Overall, the net effect of our relative sector weights was a positive 26 basis points.

Another element impacting relative performance is individual stock picking. One of the defining characteristics of our investing philosophy is that we seek to find “growth at a reasonable price,” or “GARP.” This investment philosophy seeks stocks of companies that are growing, and whose valuation we deem to be 'reasonable.' Of course, what is reasonable is debatable, and therein lies opportunity. On an individual stock basis, we have used the market's recent tendency to drastically mark down shares in the wake of an earnings disappointment or perceived risk to build positions in companies we believe enjoy good long-term prospects. Recent examples include Yelp, Qualcomm, Deutsche Telekom, Versum Materials, Target, Gentherm, and QTS Realty. We believe that these companies, a mix of "fallen angels" and out-of-favor stocks, are all high-quality companies which will grow nicely over time and we believe that we have bought them at reasonable valuations. To the extent that the market continues to act in this way, we believe that we have an opportunity to "trade up" by purchasing high-quality companies at compelling entry points, while conversely the market is affording us an avenue for selling positions that have done well at what we believe are healthy valuation levels.

POSITIONING AND INVESTMENT OUTLOOK

With higher interest rates a possibility in the U.S., the calculus for discounting future growth will likely change, with particular risk for the high-flyers. We believe that our GARP orientation and individual stock selection, emphasizing high quality franchises built on solid balance sheets, should serve us well on a relative basis should valuations come under pressure.

We utilize both a top-down and bottom-up methodology in defining sector weights. While we believe that sector diversification can be important in reducing risk, we also believe that it is prudent and can be fruitful to pay attention to relative sector attractiveness and to act upon our insights. Accordingly, our GARP-informed, individual stock selection often helps us identify opportunities amongst sectors or alternatively, confirms or challenges our top-down view. We have found that this reflexive top-down/bottom-up discipline makes for a more rigorous examination of, and reflection upon, what makes for an attractive/unattractive sector or stock.

The exhibit below shows selected valuation and growth metrics for S&P 500 sectors as of August 31, 2017. A quick glance at Fund sector weights shows that, with the notable exception of technology and health care (the latter is screened out of the Fund), we are generally underweight groups that are expensive relative to their history and overweight groups that are inexpensive relative to their history. The second column shows the standard deviation to 10-year history for the price/earnings ("P/E") ratios for each sector (next 12 months basis).

NTM P/E ratio – Next Twelve Months price to earnings ratio. A commonly used way to assess how “expensive” a stock might be; the price of a share of stock divided by the expected earnings per share over the next twelve months; higher values are considered more expensive.

Standard Deviation (“SD”) – SD is a commonly used measure of variability used in statistics and probability. It shows the extent to which there is dispersion or variability from a central value, such as a mean (average) value. Low standard deviations mean there is little variability in the data, while high standard deviations mean there is extensive variability in the data. In a “normal” distribution (standard bell curve), 68% of the values will fall within one standard deviation of the mean (or average).

American Trust Allegiance Fund

EPS – Earnings per share. The amount of money a company earns in a given period (typically a quarter or a year) for each share of the company. EPS Growth is not a measure of future performance.

PEG ratio – (Price/earnings)/growth rate. This ratio, calculated by dividing the P/E ratio by an earnings growth rate, is used to relate how expensive a stock is on a relative basis after factoring in the expected growth in earnings, since higher growing stocks typically warrant higher P/E ratios. The higher the PEG ratio, the higher the valuation as measured by a P/E ratio is for a given unit of growth. Higher numbers are more “expensive” than lower values, all else being equal.

Free cash flow yield – Free cash flow per share/Price per share. Higher numbers generally indicate more favorable stocks as investors like to minimize the amount they pay for a given level of cash flow.

P/E ratio – Price to earnings ratio. A commonly used way to assess how ‘expensive’ a stock might be; The price of a share of stock divided by the expected earnings per share for the current fiscal year; higher values are considered more expensive.

Although technology stocks in aggregate are somewhat expensive, we continue to find selected stocks where we reckon a relatively good trade-off between risk and reward. Moreover, secular (long-term) trends behind increased automation of business processes and household and vehicular control, coupled with advances in communications and miniaturization of electronics, are driving growth opportunities for technology companies that are well beyond the cyclical norms experienced in the last ten years. Accordingly, we remain significantly overweight tech stocks. Conversely, we have trimmed our positions in the consumer discretionary sector this Fall on account of both valuation and competitive concerns. As internet giant Amazon pressures all comers, we have focused on indirect beneficiaries such as delivery company Federal Express and cloud-based data center provider QTS Realty.

Bear markets in stocks are typically brought on by recessions, which we do not see as likely in the near term. We continue to have confidence in the durability of U.S. economic growth, but in recent months have taken action to lessen portfolio risk through: 1) halving some technology sector positions with large gains and reinvesting in similar end market exposure but at better perceived valuations; 2) taking advantage of what we believe is unjustified pessimism in some quality company stocks; and 3) buying selective overseas shares. We intend to continue these techniques in the coming months as we strive to balance long-term opportunity with prudent risk management.

Mutual fund investing involves risk. Principal loss is possible. The Fund's socially responsible policy could cause it to make or avoid investments that could result in the portfolio underperforming similar funds that do not have similar policies. The Fund's portfolio will generally consist predominantly of mid- and large-capitalization stocks, but in some market environments small-capitalization stocks may constitute a large portion of the Fund's portfolio. Small-capitalization companies tend to have limited liquidity and greater price volatility than mid- and large-capitalization companies. The Fund invests in foreign securities, which are subject to the risks of currency fluctuation, political and economic stability and differences in accounting standards. These risks are greater in emerging markets. The Fund may make short sales of securities, which involve the risk that losses may exceed the original amount invested.

The S&P 500® Index is an unmanaged index commonly used to measure performance of U.S. stocks. This index is not available for investment and does not incur charges or expenses.

American Trust Allegiance Fund

EXPENSE EXAMPLE at August 31, 2017 (Unaudited)

As a shareholder of a fund, you incur two types of costs: (1) transaction costs, including sales charges (loads) on purchase payments; redemption fees; and exchange fees; and (2) ongoing costs, including management fees; distribution and/or service fees; and other fund expenses. This Example is intended to help you understand your ongoing costs (in dollars) of investing in the Fund and to compare these costs with the ongoing costs of investing in other mutual funds. The Example is based on an investment of $1,000 invested at the beginning of the period and held for the entire period (3/1/17 – 8/31/17).

Actual Expenses

The first line of the table below provides information about actual account values and actual expenses, with actual net expenses being limited to 1.45% per the operating expenses limitation agreement. Although the Fund charges no sales load or transaction fees, you will be assessed fees for outgoing wire transfers, returned checks, and stop payment orders at prevailing rates charged by U.S. Bancorp Fund Services, LLC, the Fund's transfer agent. The example below includes, but is not limited to, management fees, fund accounting, custody and transfer agent fees. You may use the information in this line, together with the amount you invested, to estimate the expenses that you paid over the period. Simply divide your account value by $1,000 (for example, an $8,600 account value divided by $1,000 = 8.6), then multiply the result by the number in the first line under the heading entitled "Expenses Paid During Period" to estimate the expenses you paid on your account during this period.

Hypothetical Example for Comparison Purposes

The second line of the table below provides information about hypothetical account values and hypothetical expenses based on the Fund's actual expense ratio and an assumed rate of return of 5% per year before expenses, which is not the Fund's actual return. The hypothetical account values and expenses may not be used to estimate the actual ending account balance or expenses you paid for the period. You may use this information to compare the ongoing costs of investing in the Fund and other funds. To do so, compare this 5% hypothetical example with the 5% hypothetical examples that appear in the shareholder reports of the other funds. Please note that the expenses shown in the table are meant to highlight your ongoing costs only and do not reflect any transactional costs, such as sales charges (loads), redemption fees, or exchange fees. Therefore, the second line of the table is useful in comparing ongoing costs only, and will not help you determine the relative total costs of owning different funds. In addition, if these transactional costs were included, your costs would have been higher.

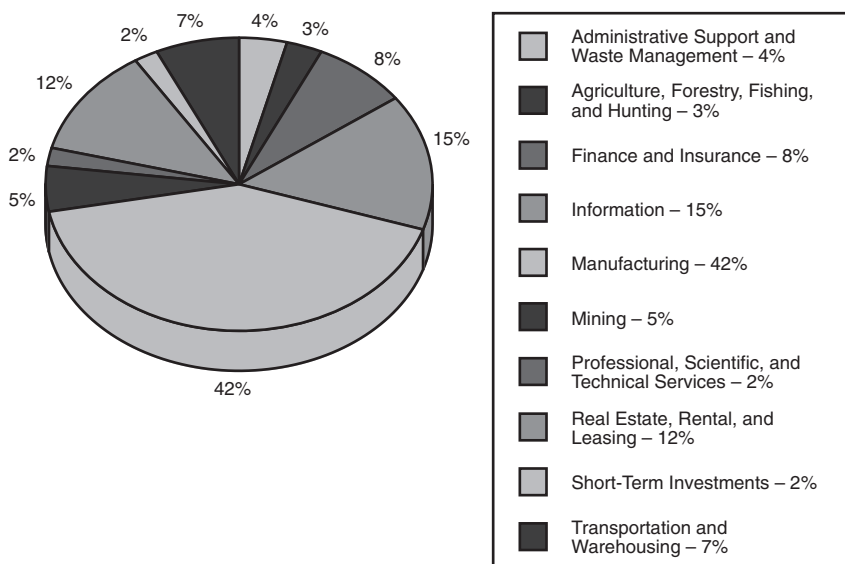

American Trust Allegiance Fund

NOTE 1 – ORGANIZATION

The American Trust Allegiance Fund (the “Fund”) is a diversified series of Advisors Series Trust (the “Trust”), which is registered under the Investment Company Act of 1940, as amended, (the “1940 Act”) as an open-end management investment company. The Fund follows the investment company accounting and reporting guidance of the Financial Accounting Standards Board (“FASB”) Accounting Standard Codification Topic 946 “Financial Services – Investment Companies”. The investment objective of the Fund is to seek capital appreciation. The Fund began operations on March 11, 1997.

NOTE 2 – SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES

The following is a summary of significant accounting policies consistently followed by the Fund. These policies are in conformity with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America.

- A. Security Valuation: All investments in securities are recorded at their estimated fair value, as described in note 3.
- B. Federal Income Taxes: It is the Fund’s policy to comply with the requirements of Subchapter M of the Internal Revenue Code applicable to regulated investment companies and to distribute substantially all of its taxable income to its shareholders. Therefore, no Federal income or excise tax provision is required.

The Fund recognizes the tax benefits of uncertain tax positions only where the position is “more likely than not” to be sustained assuming examination by tax authorities. Management has analyzed the Fund’s tax positions, and has concluded that no liability for unrecognized tax benefits should be recorded related to uncertain tax positions taken on returns filed for open tax years 2015 – 2017, or expected to be taken in the Fund’s 2018 tax returns. The Fund identifies its major tax jurisdictions as U.S. Federal and the state of Wisconsin; however the Fund is not aware of any tax positions for which it is reasonably possible that the total amounts of unrecognized tax benefits will change materially in the next twelve months.

- C. Security Transactions, Income and Distributions: Security transactions are accounted for on the trade date. Realized gains and losses on securities sold are calculated on the basis of first in, first out. Interest income is recorded on an accrual basis. Dividend income and distributions to shareholders are recorded on the ex-dividend date. Withholding taxes on foreign dividends have been provided for in accordance with the Fund's understanding of the applicable country's tax rules and rates.

Common expenses of the Trust are typically allocated among the funds in the Trust based on a fund's respective net assets, or by other equitable means.

The Fund distributes substantially all net investment income, if any, and net realized gains, if any, annually. Distributions from net realized gains for book purposes may include short-term capital gains. All short-term capital gains are included in ordinary income for tax purposes.

The amount of dividends and distributions to shareholders from net investment income and net realized capital gains is determined in accordance with Federal income tax regulations which differ from accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America. To the extent these book/tax differences are permanent, such amounts are reclassified within the capital accounts based on their Federal tax treatment.

- D. Reclassification of Capital Accounts: Accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America require that certain components of net assets relating to permanent differences be reclassified between financial and tax reporting. These reclassifications have no effect on net assets or net asset value per share.
- E. Use of Estimates: The preparation of financial statements in conformity with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of increases and decreases in net assets during the reporting period. Actual results could differ from those estimates.
- F. REITs: The Fund has made certain investments in real estate investment trusts ("REITs") which pay dividends to their shareholders based upon available funds from operations. It is quite common for these dividends to exceed the REITs' taxable earnings and profits resulting in the excess portion being designated as a return of capital. The Fund intends to include the gross dividends from such REITs in its annual distributions to its shareholders and, accordingly, a portion of the Fund's distributions may also be designated as a return of capital.

G. Events Subsequent to the Fiscal Period End: In preparing the financial statements as of August 31, 2017, management considered the impact of subsequent events for potential recognition or disclosure in the financial statements.

NOTE 3 – SECURITIES VALUATION

The Fund has adopted authoritative fair value accounting standards which establish an authoritative definition of fair value and set out a hierarchy for measuring fair value. These standards require additional disclosures about the various inputs and valuation techniques used to develop the measurements of fair value, a discussion in changes in valuation techniques and related inputs during the period and expanded disclosure of valuation levels for major security types. These inputs are summarized in the three broad levels listed below:

Level 1 – Unadjusted quoted prices in active markets for identical assets or liabilities that the Fund has the ability to access.

Level 2 – Observable inputs other than quoted prices included in level 1 that are observable for the asset or liability, either directly or indirectly. These inputs may include quoted prices for the identical instrument on an inactive market, prices for similar instruments, interest rates, prepayment speeds, credit risk, yield curves, default rates and similar data.

Level 3 – Unobservable inputs for the asset or liability, to the extent relevant observable inputs are not available, representing the Fund's own assumptions about the assumptions a market participant would use in valuing the asset or liability, and would be based on the best information available.

Following is a description of the valuation techniques applied to the Fund's major categories of assets and liabilities measured at fair value on a recurring basis.

The Fund determines the fair value of its investments and computes its net asset value per share as of the close of regular trading on the New York Stock Exchange (4:00 pm EST).

Equity Securities: The Fund's investments are carried at fair value. Equity securities, including common stocks, that are primarily traded on a national securities exchange shall be valued at the last sale price on the exchange on which they are primarily traded on the day of valuation or, if there has been no sale on such day, at the mean between the bid and asked prices. Securities primarily traded in the NASDAQ Global Market System for which market quotations are readily available shall be valued using the NASDAQ Official Closing Price (“NOCP”). If the NOCP is not available, such securities shall be valued at the last sale price on the day of valuation, or if there has been no sale on such day, at the mean between the bid and asked prices. Over-the-counter securities which are not traded in the NASDAQ Global Market System shall be valued at the most recent sales price. Investments in open-end mutual funds are valued at their net asset value per share. To the extent these securities are actively traded and valuation adjustments are not applied, they are categorized in level 1 of the fair value hierarchy.

Short-Term Securities: Short-term debt securities, including those securities having a maturity of 60 days or less, are valued at the evaluated mean between the bid and asked prices. To the extent the inputs are observable and timely, these securities would be classified in level 2 of the fair value hierarchy.

The Board of Trustees (“Board”) has delegated day-to-day valuation issues to a Valuation Committee of the Trust which is comprised of representatives from U.S. Bancorp Fund Services, LLC, the Fund’s administrator. The function of the Valuation Committee is to value securities where current and reliable market quotations are not readily available or the closing price does not represent fair value by following procedures approved by the Board. These procedures consider many factors, including the type of security, size of holding, trading volume and news events. All actions taken by the Valuation Committee are subsequently reviewed and ratified by the Board.

Depending on the relative significance of the valuation inputs, fair valued securities may be classified in either level 2 or level 3 of the fair value hierarchy.

NOTE 4 – INVESTMENT ADVISORY FEE AND OTHER TRANSACTIONS WITH AFFILIATES

For the six months ended August 31, 2017, American Trust Investment Advisors, LLC (the "Advisor") provided the Fund with investment management services under an investment advisory agreement. The Advisor furnished all investment advice, office space, facilities, and provides most of the personnel needed by the Fund. As compensation for its services, the Advisor is entitled to a monthly fee at the annual rate of 0.95% based upon the average daily net assets of the Fund. For the six months ended August 31, 2017, the Fund incurred $116,107 in advisory fees.

The Fund is responsible for its own operating expenses. The Advisor has contractually agreed to reduce fees payable to it by the Fund and to pay Fund operating expenses to the extent necessary to limit the Fund's aggregate annual operating expenses (excluding acquired fund fees and expenses, taxes, interest expense and extraordinary expenses) to 1.45% of average daily net assets. Any such reduction made by the Advisor in its fees or payment of expenses which are the Fund's obligation are subject to reimbursement by the Fund to the Advisor, if so requested by the Advisor, in subsequent fiscal years if the aggregate amount actually paid by the Fund toward the operating expenses for such fiscal year (taking into account the reimbursement) does not exceed the applicable limitation on Fund expenses. The Advisor is permitted to be reimbursed only for fee reductions and expense payments made in the previous three fiscal years. Any such reimbursement is also contingent upon Board of Trustees review and approval at the time the reimbursement is made. Such reimbursement may not be paid prior to the Fund's payment of current ordinary operating expenses. For the six months ended August 31, 2017, the Advisor reduced its fees in the amount of $45,219; no amounts were reimbursed to the Advisor. Cumulative expenses subject to recapture pursuant to the aforementioned conditions amounted to $319,040 at August 31, 2017. Cumulative expenses subject to recapture and the date of expiration are as follows:

Date	Amount
2/28/18	$ 82,532
2/28/19	94,372
2/29/20	96,917
2/28/21	45,219
	$319,040

NOTE 6 – LINE OF CREDIT

The Fund has a credit line in the amount of $575,000. This line of credit is intended to provide short-term financing, if necessary, subject to certain restrictions, in connection with shareholder redemptions. The credit facility is with the Fund's custodian, U.S. Bank N.A. During the six months ended August 31, 2017, the Fund did not draw upon the line of credit.

NOTE 7 – INCOME TAXES AND DISTRIBUTIONS TO SHAREHOLDERS

Net investment income/(loss) and net realized gains/(losses) differ for financial statement and tax purposes due to differing treatments of wash sales and late-year losses.

The tax character of distributions paid during the six months ended August 31, 2017 and the year ended February 28, 2017 was as follows:

	August 31, 2017	February 28, 2017
Long-term capital gains	$ —	$466,614

As of February 28, 2017, the Fund's most recent fiscal year end, the components of accumulated earnings/(losses) on a tax basis were as follows:

Cost of investments (a)	$19,198,127
Gross tax unrealized appreciation	4,780,196
Gross tax unrealized depreciation	(434,399)
Net tax unrealized appreciation (a)	4,345,797
Undistributed ordinary income	—
Undistributed long-term capital gain	—
Total distributable earnings	—
Other accumulated gains/(losses)	(152,551)
Total accumulated earnings/(losses)	$ 4,193,246

- (a) The difference between the book-basis and tax-basis net unrealized appreciation is attributed primarily to wash sales and partnership income.

At February 28, 2017, the Fund deferred, on a tax basis, post-October losses of $152,551.

NOTE 8 – PRINCIPAL RISKS

Below is a summary of some, but not all, of the principal risks of investing in the Fund, each of which may adversely affect the Fund's net asset value and total return. The Fund's most recent prospectus provides further descriptions of the Fund's investment objective, principal investment strategies and principal risks.

- Socially Responsible Investing Policy Risk. The Fund's portfolio is subject to socially responsible investment criteria. As a result, the Fund may pass up opportunities to buy certain securities when it is otherwise advantageous to do so, or may sell securities for social reasons when it is otherwise disadvantageous to do so.
- Small- and Medium-Sized Company Risk. Securities of companies with smaller market capitalizations tend to be more volatile and less liquid than larger market capitalization stocks.
- Large-Sized Companies Risk. Larger, more established companies may be unable to respond quickly to new competitive challenges like changes in consumer tastes or innovative smaller competitors. In addition, large-cap companies are sometimes unable to attain the high growth rates of successful, smaller companies, especially during extended periods of economic expansion.
- Foreign Securities Risk. Foreign securities can be more volatile than domestic (U.S.) securities. Securities markets of other countries are generally smaller than U.S. securities markets. Many foreign securities may also be less liquid than U.S. securities, which could affect the Fund's investments. In addition, investments made in foreign currencies may be subject to the risk of currency devaluation or exchange rate risk.
- Emerging Markets Risk. Investing in securities of issuers located in emerging markets poses greater risk of social, political and economic instability, which could affect the Fund's investments. Emerging market countries may have smaller securities markets and therefore less liquidity and greater price volatility than more developed markets.
- Sector Emphasis Risk. The securities of companies in the same or related businesses, if comprising a significant portion of the Fund's portfolio, could react in some circumstances negatively to market conditions, interest rates and economic, regulatory or financial developments and adversely affect the value of the portfolio to a greater extent than if such business comprised a lesser portion of the Fund's portfolio.
